One of the youngest galleries on this list is New York–based Someday Gallery, which opened in Tribeca in 2021. Founder Rosie Motley has an impressive track record as an arts writer and curator in New York, and has used those skills to develop a program of compelling artists. The gallery has featured many New York–based female contemporary artists including sculptor Ivana Bašić; Rachel Rossin, best known for her virtual reality and multimedia works; and performance multimedia artist Justin Sterling.

Someday Gallery’s selection for Foundations – which includes paintings by Alex Gibson, Brittany Shepherd, and Peter Brock – demonstrates its eye for identifying rising talent.
